

Spread the Good News: Green Dams, Blue Skies

Northwest RiverPartners has launched a campaign to celebrate the region's hydro system. "From hydropower to transportation and recreation, there is plenty of good news to share," according to Terry Flores, RiverPartners' executive director. A recent poll shows overwhelming support for hydropower as a clean and renewable resource.

We believe dams and fish can coexist, Flores said. "Science shows that the fish runs are improving, and we need the renewable hydropower more than ever," she added.

With this campaign, we want to make sure the good news is getting out, Flores said. "We want to tell the story with pride about hydro's ongoing contribution to the Northwest!"

Learn more about the Green Dams, Blue Skies campaign at www.nwriverpartners.org. Click on the campaign logo  and fill in the form to lend your name to the effort.

##